WTHE OLD FOOLS."

(Dedicated to the fast-vanishing host of the G. A. R.) (Dedicated to the fast-ranking nost of the 6x of Ref. [Insuguration Day of 1909 will long be remembered in the city of Washington as a day of blizzard conditions—raging winds, snow drifts, sinch, and mud. Amaki it all the commudes of the G. A. R. proudly marched as an escort of President Taft to the Capitol. One of that fading column felf deeply nurt by a remark overhead from a group of, young nen on the sidewalk, "Look at those old afools."

"The old fools," gift and lightly said.
These cruel words by thoughtlese youth,
Of those whose life blood freely shed,
Proved loyal faith to God and truth.

Oh, foolish boy, so swift to chide While yet we linger round your way; We men who to our patriot pride So swiftly marched in life's young day. These strenuous fools, dear youthful friend, Once helped to make our nation great;

But now their footsteps slowly trend With feeble more to sunset gata, In-halls of state, or simpler life, By glowing forge, in marts of trade, In every field of civic life These fools a blazing traff have made.

These fools! They stretched the battle line They breathed the cannon's deadly breath,
Drank to the full the battle wine,
And more than once shock hands with death. On Marye's fire-swept, gory height,

Or by Antietam's blood-red stream; And Gettysburg! Fierce battle's light These fools enwrapped in lurid gleam.

The Wilderness its grewsome shade Spread o'er them, like a funeral pall, Beneath, for days dread battle raged, While crackling flames enveloped all. Back numbers! Yes, not once were we, When schoing plaudits shook the skies With loud acclaim of nation free, And glist ning tears from beauty's eyes.

But now our fading vision falls On brighter saies beyond the shore; For us over there the bugie calls,
